

The right data, at the right time, in the right place

While data has become the undisputed backbone of the modern enterprise, businesses have struggled to keep pace with client demand for more streamlined data services. Your business needs the tools to rapidly share the data your clients and counterparts need.

With ipushpull, you can integrate data quickly into new and existing applications such as chatbots, APIs and Excel with our no-code, single configurable platform. Helping you to accelerate data delivery, cut costs and manage legacy infrastructure more easily.

Ready to deliver an easier way to work?

By giving your clients and counterparts live access to your data, in their preferred delivery channels and client applications, you can work more effectively together.

What we do

We deliver rapid growth to data-driven services in financial markets and commodities by transforming the client experience and improving service efficiency.

- Live integration into existing client workflow applications
- Omnichannel delivery gives direct access to your service from chat, Microsoft Excel, web apps or APIs
- Data transformation and enrichment from simple data mapping to call-outs to third-party services and AI
- Full control and insight into user activity

Prototype in days, deliver in weeks

When in-house teams are overburdened, it's difficult to guarantee fast, effective deployments.
